TOP TIP

If your unit meets in an old cheese factory, maybe you'd have some cheese on your table or a book of cheesy jokes. Or if you've ever created your own badge, you can show that off!

What you need

- Items to represent your unit and local area – see 'Note to leader'
- Table
- Paper
- Pens
- Camera

Note to leader

For this activity you'll need items that showcase your unit and local area. This could be food, photos, collectables etc. You could split this activity across two meetings, one to plan the tabletop and another to make it. If you're not meeting in your unit space, you could ask each girl to create part of the tabletop and put the collage together. Check all girls have the correct photo permissions if photographing them.

Aim of activity

We're part of a truly global movement. Girlguiding is part of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts (WAGGGS). Create a tabletop to show our international sisters what your unit's all about.

What to do

- 1 Have you ever been on an international adventure with Girlguiding? If you have, you might have taken part in an international marketplace or village. This is where each country represents themselves. It could be through food, activities, badges or resources. Chat about what you'd do to represent your country.
- 2 How would you represent your unit? How would you showcase everything that's great and unique about it?
- 3 You're going to create part of a miniature virtual international village and represent your unit on a table. Grab some paper and pens and plan how you want it to look.
- 4 Now the planning's done, create your tabletop. Be as imaginative as possible, you want to catch people's eyes. When it's done, snap a picture and share it online using the hashtag #GlobalGuiding. Why not challenge another unit to do the same, or ask a unit in a different country? See how many units you can exchange tabletops with.

There are so many ways you can connect with the other 10 million guides and girl scouts around the world. You can write letters, set up video calls or connect on social media. For more information about how to make international friends, check out our website pages.
